Regional Student/ Group 'Deplores' Ties With CIA

The Minnesota-Dakotas regional conference of the National Student Association (NSA) passed a resolution Sunday which "deplored the covert and clandestine relationship that has existed between NSA officers and the Central Intelligence Agency."

Region Chairman Richard Theis, a student at the University of Minnesota, said that all 14 schools represented at the conference favored the resolution, which will be sent to the national supervisory board of NSA. Representatives of three schools were absent.

The conference also commended the national board and supported its statements urging a public investigation of the NSA-CIA relationship and an "executive order to prevent CIA infiltration of youth and student organizations."

Theis said that the Minnesota-Dakotas conference was the first region to pass such a resolution, but he expected that all 22 regions would provide similar support.
